10:30 | State of the Health and Safety Profession

An update on the current state of the health & safety professional, including the latest workplace fatality figures and what is being done to address them in specific industries.

Speaker to be announced soon

10:45 | Adapting to the new world

The panel debate will look at how health & safety professionals are having to adapt to new challenges and working environments. It will cover what those challenges are and how things like e-learning can help facilitate this change. The panellists will also debate what is likely to change for health & safety practitioners as a result of COVID-19. You will also have a chance to put your questions to the panel.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Andrew Sharman, President, IOSH and Managing Partner, RMS
- Ruth Denyer, Group Operational Risk Director, ITV and Group Operational Risk Director, IIRSM
- Karen McDonnell, Head of RoSPA Scotland, RoSPA

11:30 | Sourcing PPE during COVID-19

Stories have been circulating in the media of suppliers overcharging and sub-standard products being touted as high-quality equipment. In this panel debate, PPE manufacturers and distributors will advise practitioners how they can avoid falling into these traps and what they should be wary of. The panel will also discuss some of the work they have been doing during the pandemic and how COVID-19 has affected the supply chain.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Ian Hart, Editor, SHP, Chair
- Adam Young, Marketing Director, Arco (Adam Young)

On-demand session | Health and safety law conundrums during the pandemic

Health & safety lawyer and regular SHP contributor Simon Joyston-Bechal will provide the latest legal updates around COVID-19. In this bitesize session, he will discuss:

- Managing difficult decisions relating to COVID-19
- Could we be prosecuted for COVID-19 exposures?
- Can we keep operating if we are struggling with social distancing?
- Working from home – how far do our duties extend?
- Statutory inspections – what if we are running behind?
- Returning to work

Confirmed Speaker: Simon Joyston-Bechal, Director, Turnstone Law

14:30 | Protecting Critical National Infrastructure in challenging times

The afternoon session will explore the issue of protecting Critical National Infrastructure. The webinar will be in association with the Loss Prevention Council Board (LPCB), and will begin with Richard Flint from the BRE explaining the organisation's role in ensuring high standards of physical security are met by manufacturers in the sector.

Following this, we hear from three members of HS Security – a group of companies owned by Hill and Smith Holdings PLC, specialising in highly advanced physical security solutions. Representatives from ATG Access, Technocover and Barkers Fencing will cover a range of topics, from the importance of certification, through to physical security solutions in a smart city environment.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Richard Flint, Physical Security Technical and Business Development Manager, BRE
- Iain Moran, Sales & Marketing Director, ATG Access
- John Barty, H&S and Technical Manager, Technocover
- Russell Ridgway, Business Development Director, Barkers Fencing

10:30 | How do we ensure IoT and connected solutions are secure?

On Wednesday morning, we will hear from a team of experts, all of whom sit on the IoT Security Foundation, discussing the rise of IoT and the challenges involved in ensuring devices remain secure.

The webinar will cover a number of topics currently under discussion, including how cyber security regulations for consumer IoT products are set to impact the sector, as well as security strategies and the tactical risk to IoT in a business. This will then be followed by a Q&A session, where audience participation is encouraged.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Sarb Sembhi, CTO & CISO, Virtually Informed Ltd
- James Willison, Founder, Unified Security Ltd
- Nick Morgan, Group IT Operations Manager, Derwent University

14:30 | Office space: rethinking how we work, assessing the lasting impact on the sector, likely changes and how we can adapt to survive and grow

This prolonged period of working from home could change the outlook for the office market forever. Both companies, and the people that work for them, have pushed the boundaries on working from home practices. And, having seen how smoothly this goes, and considering the lifestyle and well-being benefits, they could collectively decide that an office-based desk isn't as important as we all thought. As a result, we could see a substantial change in the office market as companies change working practices and reduce office space.

Alternatively, the pressures of combining work with a sometimes chaotic home life could send us all back to the haven of a well-ordered office in droves. Whatever evolves, the general office market is likely to come under increasing pressure. The following speakers will explore these issues, sharing their perspectives and forecasting possible outcomes.

14:35 | Industry Perspective

Confirmed Speaker: Chris Moriarty, Director of Insight & Engagement, IWFM

14:45 | Commercial Property Perspective

Confirmed Speaker: Gavin Redmore, National Energy Manager, City Facilities Management Holdings

14:55 | Workplace Design Perspective

Confirmed Speaker: Michael Dowds MRICS, Real Estate Workplace Design Standards Manager, Department for Work and Pensions

15:15 | Getting back to "Normal"

When the world gets back to something resembling "normal" we will have to turn our thoughts once again to some of the key issues we were focused on before the virus took hold. In our next session we will take a look at some of these issues; such as sourcing technologies and products, identifying and building new relationships with suppliers and discovering innovations and insights from on intelligent building excellence.

15:15 | Smart & intelligent buildings In Age of COVID-19: Trends, opportunities and market potential

Confirmed Speaker: Owen Kell, Senior Researcher, Memoori & Director, Intelligent & Green Systems

15:25 | From automated to cognitive buildings: what enabling technologies can help you realise the transition and better manage your buildings? And how fast can it happen?

Confirmed Speaker: Nick Henley, Unified Communications Consultant, Cordless Consultants

15:35 | The three golden rules when integrating technology in to your space using the RIBA Plan of Work

Confirmed Speaker: Mike Brooman, CEO, Vanti

10:30 | Coronavirus and the fire safety sector

We hear from industry leaders on the impact they believe COVID-19 has had on the fire safety sector. Ian Moore will offer his expertise on how the Fire Industry Association (FIA) has responded to the outbreak and the support they've offered members, while Niall Rowan will run through the ASFP's response.

Following the presentations, we will take audience questions, and discuss whether the impact will have long lasting effects on the sector. For example, how have fire safety officers dealt with social distancing rules? And will technology be utilised to improve standards in the UK going forward?

Confirmed Speakers:

- Niall Rowan, CEO, ASFP
- Ian Moore, CEO, FIA

14:30 | Life after Grenfell - Tall buildings and third party certification

A topic still at the very heart of the fire safety sector. We unearth the recent changes to regulations, and discuss the issues involved for the future, including the importance of third-party certification and ensuring suitable materials are specified at source.

Experts, including Andy Taylor from the ASFP and Colin Todd, representing the FIA, will discuss what has changed in terms of regulations, while Andy Taylor will take a closer look at the issue from a passive fire protection point of view. Presentations will be followed by a Q&A session.

Confirmed Speakers:

- Andy Taylor, Technical Officer, ASFP
- Colin Todd, MBE, representing the FIA

10:30 | Coronavirus and FM

What are the short term implications for FM from Coronavirus? How are leading operators and client based FM's reacting?
